HV-20090002	01/05/09	01/05/09	I am the RA living in Room 101 in Rutherford Hall. My AC unit it not working really well. My room gets really hot b/c of the pipes that run heat through them so I turn my AC unit on. It is really loud and it doesn't keep the room cold enough. It also has mold growing on it. I was wondering if there was anything could be done to fix these things. Thank you	RUTH-101		0.00	0.00

MY-20081388	09/17/08	09/19/08	Request: Initially, we requested a replacement of our air conditioner unit due to the loud noise it brought to the room. This severely interfered with our sleep and studies. Our A/C unit was finally replaced after a month of pain and suffering with the noise of the previous unit. Unfortunately, there still remains a problem with the current (new) unit in our dorm. First off, the unit hardly cools the room. It is significantly worse than our initial unit in this regards. Secondly, the unit is just as loud as the first one. My roommate and I would really prefer an A/C unit that cools as well as our first unit, but also one that doesn't interfere with our sleep and studies.	RUTH-136		0.00	0.00

MY-20081717	12/01/08	12/02/08	Request: Our heating on the whole hall is unpredictable, it is freezing cold some days and like a sauna at night. I wonder if my knob is broken but I think that it is a bigger problem with the pipes. We just want the temperature to be steady so that we can settle in and have it be predictable. MY-20081719	12/02/08	12/03/08	The light in the hallway next to my room (room 224A) seems to be malfunctioning. Before the break, you could turn it off but it would take a while to turn back on- which I know must have seemed like a problem. Now you can't turn it off at all- which IS a problem. I'm sure that isn't good for power conservation. The light should be able to be turned off at night so that it does not disturb the residents in the nearby rooms.	RUTH-299A		0.00	0.00

I believe the glue has worn away and the wooden side of the dresser is coming off. The right side of the dresser is falling off. If you look between the 1st two drawers and the 2nd and 3rd drawer, there are two pieces of wood that should be glued into the right side of the dresser. Instead, these pices of wood have come out. Because the sides of the dresser are too far apart, the drawers do not sit correctly on the metal side rails. RD-20090134	02/02/09	02/03/09	Request: The Air Conditioning Unit in my room says that I need to check the filter. In addition, the unit has started spitting out what looks like black dirt or mold. I would like to have either the filter changed or the unit looked at to see if it is functioning properly. Thank you.	RUTH-127		0.00	0.00
